Simulations of wing rock by flow visualization utilities have been encouraged to develop a complete understanding of the fluid mechanism that drives the motion as well as for prediction purposes. Previous wind/water tunnel simulations have been limited to a single degreeof- freedom (DoF) in roll. Numerical simulations utilizing computational fluid dynamics (CFD) have also been limited to a single DoF in roll and applied to simple flying delta-wing configurations. The loss of simulation accuracy due to reducing the actual wing rock six DoF to a single roll-only DoF has not as yet been fully investigated. In this study, for the first time, wing rock is computationally simulated in three DoF: roll, sideslip, and vertical motion to study the effect of adding the sideslip and vertical motion. The results are for a generic fighter model consisting of a fore-body, a cropped delta wing, and a vertical fin. The effect of including the vertical fin is also studied. Computational simulation of wing rock in three DoF for...

Reviews

This publication will never be straightforward to get going on looking at but really fun to see. This can be for all those who statte that there had not been a worth looking at. You wont really feel monotony at at any moment of your own time (that's what catalogs are for about should you request me).
