Excerpt: .great friends, too--grew up together, and all that, you know. Well, one day early this summer they took a trip out to Long Branch, and they were just charmed with the place. There happened to be a most desirable cottage to rent, and as their families were small and the cottage rather large they concluded that the very thing to do was to take it together. People hinted to them that it wouldn't do, they'd quarrel before the season was over--but they laughed the suggestion to scorn. To think that they, who knew one another so well and agreed in so many of their ideas and tastes, would not get on well together for a few short months! The idea was really too comical. So they took the cottage. And this is the natural result? Wait till I tell you about it;...
