Wm. Adams Co., of New York, of an improved process of dying black and Prussian blue on calico. I was informed, very recently, by a large dyer of Frankfort, Pennsylvania, that he had adopted the improvement, and had realized by it many hundreds of dollars. Such information is truly encouraging, and I hope many others have experienced results equally beneficial. The discovery consists in oxydizing the iron before applying the coloring matter. I am of the opinion that dying and color-making are altogether the result of oxydizement and de-oxydizement. It has several times gone the rounds of our newspapers, since I published my last edition, that a new blue for woollens had been discovered superior to indigo in brilliancy and permanency. I would wish to put our manufacturers on their guard relative to this barefaced quackery. It has been long known that a Prussian blue can be made on woolen of a superior brilliancy to indigo; but it has been as well known that this color will not stand the action of an alkali. Even the soap used in fulling the cloth will change the color. In the advertisement of the inventor, he asserts that he has discovered a means of preventing this change. On seeing this I sent to his agent, Mr. Marshall, for...
