Co., 64 Texas, 80. The appellant contends in this case that the transfer of a part of its right of way by the Texas Pacific Railway Company to the appellant did not contemplate a use different from that intended in the deed conveying to it the right of way, and that consequently there could be no additional burden upon plaintiff's land by the building and running of defendant's road thereon. We can not agree to this proposition. The deed of the right of way was to the Texas Pacific Railway Company, granting it the right to use the same perpetually in operating its road. There is no doubt that a legal sale of the franchise and road would carry everything appurtenant thereto--the right of way, as well as to operate the road, and to take tolls...
